Heart Implants Inevitable

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Implanted artificial hearts for human beings are inevitable, says the president of the American Heart Association.

Miniature atomic reactors to provide the power to keep an artificial heart beating are already in the testing stage, Dr. L.E. January said in an interview Thursday. January said such artificial hearts may be available within the lifetime of adults now living.

"We do know that qualified medical authorities are sure that such hearts are not only feasible but inevitable," he added. He noted that eliminating heart created by atomic reaction will be a problem.

MRS. CHATTEN HAYNES

Mrs. Chatten Haynes of Camden, begins her term as President of the Conifer Girl Scout Council January, 1967. She has been active in Scouting for many years, having served as a troop leader, advisor to the Senior Planning Board, and chairman of the Program Services Committee in the Deep South Council, Mobile, Alabama. She is also a member of the Region V Selections Committee for National and International Events. Since returning to Camden in 1965, she has served on the Conifer Council Board of Directors.

Besides her Girl Scout work, Mrs. Haynes is affiliated with the Little Rock Chapter of the United Nations Association of U.S.A., the League of Women Voters, the Camden Garden Club, and the New Century Club. Her husband is associated with the International Paper Company. They have three children, Mary McEwen, Chatten Richard, Jr., and Frances Rosalind.

The Conifer Girl Scout Council, which Mrs. Haynes heads, was chartered in 1961. It serves approximately 5,000 girls in Clark, Columbia, Hempstead, Hot Spring, Howard, Lafayette, Little River, Miller, Nevada, Ouachita, Pike, Sevier, and Union Counties in Arkansas; and Cass and Bowie Counties in Texas.

Last Marshal in France Dies at 78

PARIS AP — Marshal Philippe Juin died early Friday at Val de Grace Hospital where he was under treatment for a heart condition.

Jun, 78, was the only living marshal of France, his country's highest military rank. He joined the army at 19 and served continuously until 1956, when he resigned as commander of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization forces in Central Europe.

Jun became France's most controversial military figure during his long career. He fought the Arabs in North Africa, the Germans in two world wars, the Italians in the second, and, in 1942, fought for three days against the U.S. forces of Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower as they landed in North Africa.

Then he switches sides along with his forces and after the war became one of Eisenhower's most trusted aides in setting up the North Atlantic Treaty Organization.

Jun lived out his final years in an atmosphere of government disapproval.

Ky Plans to Clean House Politically

By KENNETH L. WHITING
SAIGON, South Vietnam (AP) — Premier Nguyen Cao Ky completed his tour of New Zealand and Australia today and flew home to an emergency meeting of the ruling military junta on South Vietnam's murky political situation.

His visit to New Zealand ended with more jeers from demonstrators ringing in his ears, but the tour was generally considered a success in both the countries he visited. Demonstrations were staged by a comparatively small number of opponents of the Vietnam war, and crowds and newspapers ranged from friendly to enthusiastic.

En route home, Ky and his wife stopped in Manila and paid a helicopter visit to Philippine President Ferdinand E. Marcos at the suburban hospital where he is recuperating following removal of his gallbladder.

Ky told newsmen during a stopover in Sydney, Australia, that he would discuss the ouster of Deputy Premier Nguyen Huu Co "with my directorate when I get home."

Salmon remained calm but tense. The capital was buzzing with speculation over changes in the military regime and rumors of Vietnamese troop movements. There were few solid facts, but it appeared on the surface that the junta had matters under control.

Co, who also was war minister and defense secretary, was last reported in Hong Kong. Security Minister Linh Quang Vien reportedly met him there Wednesday to offer him an ambassadorship abroad or a trial on corruption charges if he returned to Vietnam.

There was no official comment on reports that as many as 30 field-grade army officers and three generals were under house arrest or close surveillance. Most of them were reported to be members of Co's defense ministry staff or officers in the 5th and 7th Vietnamese divisions which are based near Saigon.

An undetermined number of other officers were reported transferred.

The ouster of the once-powerful lieutenant general was decided upon at a meeting of the directorate which Ky and chief of state Nguyen Van Thieu attended before the premier left Jan. 17. Rumors of Co's removal and a number of other changes in the Cabinet began circulating a week ago.

Italian Pop Singer Suicide

SAN REMO, Italy (AP) — Pop singer Luigi Tenco, 27, killed himself today after he was eliminated from the Sanremo Festival, Italy's biggest song competition.

Police said he fired a shot into his head in his hotel room after writing a brief note lamenting that he had "devoted the five best years of my life" to singing and writing songs.

"Everything caves in around me," he wrote.

Your friend, and your father's friend, do not forsake, and do not go to your brother's house in the day of your calamity. Better is a neighbor who is near than a brother who is far away.—Proverbs 27:10.

Luci Just May Be That Way

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — Luci Johnson Nugen, walked into the Texas House of Representatives chamber in Austin Thursday wearing what several women described as a maternity dress, but she declined to say if she was pregnant.

"We're out of the announcement business," said President Johnson's younger daughter.

Her husband, Patrick J. Nugent, sat beside her with a smile on his face.

The Nugents attended a session of the legislature called to hear an address by Secretary of State Dean Rusk.

Describes Collapse of Buildings

By WILLIAM H. KANE
NEW YORK (AP) — "I thought 'This is it, my God, this is it!'" said William Ferrell. "I yelled 'Oh, Lord. Oh, Lord, someone help me! Please!'"

There was a cracking sound. Then a loud boom. Bricks and beams rained downward. A cloud of white dust rolled through the area.

Ferrell, 33, was one of 10 men working inside a century-old, four-story apartment house under demolition in mid-Manhattan when the building collapsed Thursday.

Four other men were known dead, including two whose bodies were recovered early today as rescue teams worked through the night under floodlights.

One other man was still entombed, and believed to be dead. Rescue workers sighted his body under tons of debris and were cutting a shaft through the rubble to reach him.

Ferrell was one of five men pulled alive from the 50-foot pile of rubble shortly after the building collapsed at 1 p.m.

Thousands of persons gathered near 54th Street just east of Broadway to watch more than 300 fire, police and hospital workers dig their way through the debris, brick by brick, in an effort to free those entombed.

Stephen Wojcik, one of those pulled alive from the debris, quipped to photographers as he was being carried away on a stretcher: "Take a good picture of me. I died less than an hour later of his injuries."

Ferrell spoke as he lay in a hospital, blood plasma flowing into an arm.

"I felt the floor sliding," he recalled. "Something I remember was when I said to myself, 'I know I'm falling, I'm falling. I'm dropping to the ground.' The next thing I remember was when I opened my eyes."

"I saw a little bit of light. I yelled, 'Oh Lord! Oh, Lord, someone help me. Please.' I was in about three feet I think. I was covered with dirt but I could see some light."

"Someone came over. I heard someone near me and they said, 'Don't worry, ax man.' That was my nickname—Ax Man. It took three minutes and then they pulled me out."

The rear portion of the building slid into an adjoining pit, which was being cleared for construction of a 40-story office building.

Commitment Could Keep U.S. at War

By JAMES MARLOW
AP News Analyst
WASHINGTON (AP) — Most people won't read President Johnson's budget message — it's such a swamp of figures — but from it emerges the picture of an America bulging with prosperity and self-confidence.

The self-confidence part of it shows up earliest in Johnson's promise: "In Vietnam, as throughout the world, we seek peace but will provide all the resources needed to combat aggression." That's a big order.

But when Johnson mentions aggression he undoubtedly means Communist aggression. And this promise to stop Communist aggression anywhere is consistent with American policy in Vietnam.

Johnson and others in his administration from time to time have given what sounded like noble reasons for American involvement in Vietnam, such as preserving democracy there although the people never really had it.

But running through all the Johnson explanations there has also been another reason — American self-interest — that the forcible spread of communism is a menace to this country's national security.

Nevertheless, the commitment made in Johnson's budget message could keep this country involved in foreign wars — where there is Communist aggression — for countless years to come.

Yet, while Johnson in one sentence is promising such a sweeping and ambitious foreign policy, in the very next sentence he is urging caution about what is to be done at home: "In our urgent domestic programs we will continue to press ahead, at a controlled and reasonable pace."

Thus, while his total budget request to Congress is a record-breaking $135 billion to take care of all the government's present programs and commitments, he goes easy on the idea of new ones.

He recognizes that the country is still trying to digest some of the programs he set in motion the past couple of years.

But the sense of bursting prosperity glistens through the message and at the very moment he urges caution he provides a catalogue of progress and increasing affluence.

It includes: Gross national product up nearly 5.4 per cent; unemployment below 4 per cent; more than 3 million new jobs found in 1966. Income and corporation income in the same year up about 8 per cent.

His budget makes clear the end is not in sight. Johnson is thinking in terms of limitless prosperity although he knows from past history that the economy could get out of control and plunge.

One example of Johnson's confidence in the future, despite Haley was confirmed by a vote of 17-16.

Sen. W. D. Moore Jr. of El Dorado reportedly was the principal opponent of Haley's appointment. Moore, it was learned, told the Senate he didn't think Haley was qualified for the position.

Ingram, in opposing Miss Payton's appointment, said he had asked Rockefeller to retain Vic Foley as Crittenden County revenue commissioner. The senator said, however, that Rockefeller had "made no indication to me that he will grant my request, and one of his aides has informed me that no such indication would be forthcoming."

The Senate confirmed the appointments of John Sorenson and Dr. Raymond Miller, both of Little Rock, to the McRae Sanatorium board; Omar Jones of North Little Rock and Edwain Gray of DeQueen to the Liquefied Petroleum Gas board; L. H. Polk of West Memphis to the board of State College of Arkansas at Conway; Clark (Rusty) Ralston of Little Rock to the State Police Commission; Carl E. Bandits' Loot May Be Deadly COOLEEMEE, N.C. (AP) — Two bandits may be carrying around some deadly loot — thinking they have a supply of drugs.

Druggist Edgar Hoyle said he found two masked men trying to open a safe in his drug store Thursday. One of the men pointed a gun and ordered him out of the store.

Hoyle said the men then scooped about three dozen small bottles from a shelf and fled.

"They apparently thought they were narcotics," Hoyle said, "but all contained poison — atropine, strychnine, arsenic, and the like."

Wedding Vows Are Repeated

MR. AND MRS. MORTON J. WHEATLY

A double-ring ceremony uniting Miss Virginia Ann Edwards and Morton Jay Wheatly in holy matrimony was performed at three o'clock on the afternoon of January 22 in the sanctuary of the First Methodist Church with the Rev. Robert B. Moore, Jr. officiating. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. B. W. Edwards, and the bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Wheatley of Malvern.

Vows were exchanged before an altar decorated with an arch of greenery, baskets of white gladioli and stocks, and lighted tapers in seven-branched candelabra. Mrs. B. C. Hyatt, organist, played a program of pre-nuptial music and the traditional wedding marches.

B. W. Edwards gave his daughter in marriage, and she wore an Empire-style street-length dress of white re-embroidered Alencon lace over taffeta with sheer lace long sleeves. It was accented with a self-bow at the front of the bodice and a bow with streamers to the hem of the back. The elbow-length veil was attached to a peau de sole pillbox hat decorated with matching lace and seed pearls. The bride's carriage bouquet of stephanotis was centered with a purple-throated blue orchid.

The bride's honor attendant was her sister, Miss Ruth Alice Edwards. She wore an A-line dress of mint green and carried bronze flowers. Processed in similar fashion were the bridesmaids, Miss Libby Alderman of Hope and Miss Vanda Holmes of El Dorado.

Prior to the ceremony Nell Edwards, brother of the bride, and Ben Dixon of Camden, cousin of the bride, lighted the candles.

David Chen, of Malvern served the bridegroom as best man. Ushers were Richard Fling, Arkadelphia, and George Stagg, Brinkley.

Mrs. Edwards, mother of the bride, wore a powder blue wool suit with matching accessories, and Mr. Wheatly, mother of the bridegroom, wore a green and white wool suit with winter white accessories. Each had an orchid corsage.

Following the wedding, a reception was held in the home of the bride's parents. The serving table was decorated with a crystal and silver centerpiece holding white stocks and carnations. Mrs. Burley Medley of Kansas City, poured the punch, and Mrs. E. E. States, sister of the bridegroom, served the cake.

Those from Hope who assisted in serving were Mrs. E. P. O'Neal, Mr. B. W. Edwards, Mrs. Jack Gardner, and Misses Ginny Gardner, Charlotte Edwards, Susan Cobb, and Brenda Rateliff. Other members of the house party were Mrs. Frank Dixon, Miss Jill Dixon, Miss Dee Ann Dixon, Mrs. Paul Edwards, Mrs. Sara Down, Camden, Mrs. Charles Bell, Mr. Spence Massey, Texarkana, and Mr. Martha Rice, Stamps.

For travel the bride donned a lilac wool suit with winter white accessories and pinned the orchid from her bridal bouquet at her shoulder.

After a wedding trip to Hot Springs, Mr. and Mrs. Wheatly will be at home in Monticello, where he is a junior at Arkansas A & M College.

Out-of-town guests at the wedding included: Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Wheatly, Mrs. Wright, Mrs. Wheatly, Sr., Mrs. Virginia Winfield, Malvern; Mrs. Smith, Wicks; Paul Edwards, Dianne, Downs, Mrs. Elsie Edwards, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Dixon, John, Bill, Jill, and Dee Ann Dixon, Camden; Charles Bell, Jan, Chuck, and Ann Bell, Burley Medley and Randy, Kansas City, Mo.; Mr. and Mrs. Jim Edwards, Kim and Bob Edwards, Little Rock; and Mr. and Mrs. Bill Etter, Washington.

On Saturday, January 21 Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Wheatly of Malvern entertained with a rehearsal dinner at the Heritage House. At a table decorated with white daisy mums stocks, and lighted candles, covers were laid for 16.

Coming, Going

Mr. and Mrs. S. E. McGregor, Beltsville, Md., visited Mr. and Mrs. B. M. Hazzard and Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Delaney over the weekend. On Sunday they went to Little Rock to a meeting of the National Beekeepers Association before returning home.

Mrs. Ed Wallace of Tulsa is visiting her sister, Mrs. E. J. Whitman, and Mr. Whitman.

Dora Ann King a senior at Ouachita Baptist University, was one of six from OBU who went to the Baptist Seminary in Fort Worth the first of this week and heard Billy Graham and others on his evangelistic team.

Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Williamson, Randy and Greg of Fort Worth, Texas will spend the weekend with Mr. and Mrs. Leo Hartsfield and Mr. and Mrs. Edward Hartsfield. The Williamsons are formerly from Topeka, Kansas.

Don't Try For Perfection

Perfection is a bore so don't try for it. What you want is interest, appeal and pizzazz. First, decide how you want to look and then work to look that way. If you're unhappy about your hair or make-up, learn what's wrong and correct it. Shop for the dress you're going to wear to that special party with a definite idea of what you want. Worry about details. Be sure that all your accessories are right for the cut and color of your dress. Also, make certain that your undergarments are right for the dress so that you keep a smooth line.

NORMAL NERVE FUNCTION

by DR. CHARLES JOHNSON

All parts of the body respond to nerve function and perform as long as the supply of nerve current is normal. Various centers in the nervous system control function such as: Breathing, movement, heart action, digestion, blood circulation and so on. When disease appears, it is evident that the force causing health has diminished. Diminished nerve function not only impairs normal action of organs, but also lowers tissue resistance. Correct spinal balance and unimpeded nerve function to all tissues is the specialty of the Chiropractic profession.

Pants Suits Not Faddish

By JOANNE SCHREIBER
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

Pants suits are here to stay. Like any really different new fashion, they were pioneered by fashion leaders who knew exactly when, where, how and with what to wear them. Then the pendulum swung and pants suits began showing up on the wrong people in the wrong places. Now, finally, they have received a shot of fashion discipline and have settled down into a fairly reliable set of rules.

If you have been putting off stitching up a pants suit because you were afraid you'd be putting a lot of work into a gone-tomorrow fad, forget your worries and head for the nearest fabric shop. Pants suits are an accepted part of the fashion scene and are likely to remain so for some time.

Happily, a pants suit does not demand an exceptional figure to look good. The trick is to have the jacket long enough to cover the derriere. This also allows it to cover a few other imperfections. If your figure is less than perfect, you'll look better in a pants suit than in slacks with a tucked-in blouse.

If you're planning a pants suit for spring, here's one that's as brisk and fresh as an ocean breeze. The jacket is Crompton's wonderful wide-wide wale corduroy in midday blue with eye-aye-sir brass buttons and pea-jacket pockets. The slacks, also of wide-wale corduroy, are printed in a bold navy-and-white houndstooth and are becomingly belled at the bottom.

When buying a slacks pattern, select the size by your hip measurement. If you have never made a pair of slacks before, you might want to cut your pattern from an old skirt so you can take care of necessary alterations before cutting into your good fabric. The extra effort put into this step at the beginning will save time on all subsequent slacks-sewing projects.

One of the most important measurements is the one called crotch depth. If you can get yourself and the pattern co-ordinated in this area, the rest should fall into line fairly easily.

YOUTH ASKED FOR IT!

This column is for young people their problems and a few pleasures, their troubles and fun. As with the rest of Helen Help US!, it welcomes laughs but won't dodge a serious question with a brush-off.

Send your teenage questions to Helen Help US!, this newspaper.

WILL THE REAL AUTHOR PLEASE STAND UP?

Dear Helen: You asked for the author of WHAT IS A SERVICEMAN to please step forward so you could give him credit. Approximately July of 1966 I composed a similar essay, titled THE AIRMAN, which I am enclosing. You can see the two are almost identical. I'm not trying to take credit, but thought you might like to know where the original came from. — AIRMAN 3rd CLASS, ALEXANDER CILLI, KINAWA

Dear Helen: In response to your question, "Who Wrote THE SERVICEMAN?" wrote it two and one-half years ago, just for fun, for my then boy friend who was in the Navy. The original title was WHAT IS A SAILOR. But before the end of this summer I met a guy whom I plan to marry and so I dug it up again and rewrote it for him, as he was to be drafted. I did not know which branch of the Service he would be in so I changed the title to "What is a Serviceman?" A few days later I gave a copy to my girl friend, and many other copies were made and sent overseas. It was printed in several Army newspapers and many mimeographs were made. I guess that's how you got your copy.

I'm delighted that people thought enough of it to send it around, and I hope you enjoyed writing it. — DEBBIE NOLAN, River Edge, New Jersey.

Dear Helen: I wonder if Alan Beck didn't write "What is a Serviceman?" His "What is a Boy?" "What is a Girl?" "What is a Husband?" "What is a Wife?" which I guess almost everyone has read, are on the same pattern. — C.A.

Dear Helen: We men of the 90th Aviation Company have our own edition of "The Serviceman," which is quite similar to the one you printed. (See copy enclosed.) We also have one for when a man rotates back to the states titled PARENTS WATCH OUT. It is funnier, but four pages long so maybe you couldn't use it in your column. If you would like to have a copy, let us know through HHU, and we'll send you one. — 90th AVIATION COMPANY, APO NEW YORK

Dear 90th: Please do! I'll be waiting to read PARENTS WATCH OUT. — H.

Dear Helen: I'm enclosing another version of the "Serviceman" piece. As you can see, it's about twice as long, and about an Airman. My Air Force

ity. This is the measurement that determines whether or not you end up with a droopy-drawers look. To get this measurement, sit in a chair and measure from your natural waistline to the seat of the chair. Then draw a line straight across the pattern from the point where the crotch seams will join across to the side seam. Measure up from this line to the waist, add about an inch for ease, and see if this measurement corresponds to your own measurement. If not, alter the pattern along the line you have drawn.

In making alterations concerning the width of the legs, remember to divide the alteration requirement by four and adjust equally on each of the four seam edges. This is particularly important with bell bottoms, which require slimmness through the thigh and knee and a sleek flare from knee to ankle. Don't get carried away by the snug thigh fit, though. You'll need two inches more than your own leg measurement even for a slim fit.

When trying on the basted slacks, remember to trim the seam allowance along the curved edge of the crotch seam. If you don't, the crotch may seem snugger than it actually is.

Perfectly fitting pants should have side seams that are truly perpendicular to the floor, as though you had dropped a plumb line from your waist. They should fit comfortably when you sit or bend, they should look slim, and they should be in proportion to your figure.

Are you in doubt as to where your new pants suit will be appropriate? Try this basic rule: Wear a pants suit any place you could wear a skirt with loafers or other casual, low-heeled leather shoes. A pants suit in velvet or dazzling brocade can substitute for a long at-home wool skirt. In the city, the rules are tricky and unless you're doing a supermarathon run or walking the dogs, you're better off in a dress. Proprietors of smart shops and fashionable restaurants are mostly gun-shy, and it's kinder not to rattle them.

So sew up a pants suit for spring—and fill out your wardrobe with a lasting piece of good fashion.

SHE'S SUITED to the occasion, in her navy-for-spring pants suit with bell-bottom trousers and admiralty brass buttons.

added some "Nashville sound." Nancy Ames sang. Two bright English comedians, Tony Hendra and Nick Ullett engaged in sharp satire, mostly directed at their own little island. It was Como's best special of this season.

ABC plans to broadcast, without cuts, "The Man with the Golden Arm" on Sunday, Feb. 5 from 9 to 11 p.m. EST. The film stars Frank Sinatra and Kim Novak.

Launder Before First Use

This may seem old-fashioned but take a tip from mom and grandma. Launder new bedding, tablecloths, place mats and towels before using. This also goes for lingerie. This washes away factory finish, soil, fingerprints, lettering, pasted labels and embroidery machine oil.

NORMAL NERVE FUNCTION

by DR. CHARLES JOHNSON

All parts of the body respond to nerve function and perform as long as the supply of nerve current is normal. Various centers in the nervous system control function such as: Breathing, movement, heart action, digestion, blood circulation and so on. When disease appears, it is evident that the force causing health has diminished. Diminished nerve function not only impairs normal action of organs, but also lowers tissue resistance. Correct spinal balance and unimpeded nerve function to all tissues is the specialty of the Chiropractic profession.

Koufax Is Realistic About Self

NEW YORK AP — Sandy Koufax is as coldly realistic facing arthritis as he was facing Willie Mays in the batter's box. He knows the arthritis will get worse. He knew Willie Mays could hit home runs.

"The joint in my left arm is worse. The arthritis is not going away. It's here. Maybe if I don't pitch I won't lose the movement of the arm until I'm 50 or older. If I do pitch maybe I'll lose it in two years."

Koufax is now 31. Last November at the very height of a sensational career he retired as a Los Angeles Dodger after making a reporter $125,000 salary in 1966 and took a job as an announcer with the National Broadcasting company at $100,000 or so.

Over 12 years in the majors he won 165 games, lost 87, for an average of .653, and had 2,356 strikeouts. Only 189 short of the National League career record held by Warren Spahn. He was the league's Most Valuable Player in 1963, and the Cy Young Award as the best pitcher in the majors in 1963, 1965, and 1966 — the only man to win it more than once.

Now that he is not pitching, says Koufax, "It is not going to hurt as much. But the condition is going to get worse. I only hope it will take longer to get worse."

Bobby Hull Says Season Title Best

Bobby Hull, one of the few National Hockey League players who thinks that the regular season title is more important than the Stanley Cup championship is doing his best to keep the Chicago Black Hawks in first place.

His best was to good for the Detroit Red Wings Thursday night. The Golden Jet, coming on like a roaring locomotive, scored his 29th and 30th goals as the Hawks downed the Red Wings 4-3. The Boston Bruins beat the Montreal Canadiens in the only other game.

Red Hay moved Chicago five points in front of the second-place New York Rangers, who were idle. The Hawks never have won the league title.

Stan Mikita and Ken Hodge had the other Chicago Goals. Alex Delvecchio, Bruce McGregor and Val Fonteyne found the net for the Wings the latter making it at 3-3 in the sixth.

Ron Stewart was the Bruins' star. He scored the winning goal at 13:51 of the second period, breaking a 1-1 deadlock. Stewart also assisted on Murray Oliver's tally earlier in the session.

John McKenzie and Ed Westfall scored for Boston in the third period. Dick Duff was the Canadian beating goalie Ed Johnston eight minutes and five seconds after the opening face-off.

The Promoter and the Salesman

By DAVE BURGIN
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

ZANESVILLE, Ohio—(NEA)—Maybe 1967 will be the year that Don Elbaum makes it big in boxing.

If so, he could ease in with the big boys in New York, Philly or on the West Coast—which would give him the money and the room to put all of his big plans in motion.

Now, Elbaum is known only as boxing's most imaginative promoter in western Pennsylvania and eastern Ohio. But two or three times a year he springs out of his little domain to smash the boxing world with his latest scheme or hottest new fighter.

Early last year it was Dick Wipperman, a heavyweight Elbaum took to Madison Square Garden to meet Joe Frazier, one of the division's brighter prospects.

There are a few people who are going to be plenty surprised. Elbaum said, winking, smiling and nodding his head like a race track rail bird with all the inside dope.

Wipperman didn't last long, but not because Frazier carved him up. Wipperman set a new indoor track record, a three-minute mile, and the referee, a boxing man all the way, stopped the fight.

Next in 1966 Elbaum

Free Swingers Sign With the Pirates

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Free-swinging the No. 2 man in baseball's No. 1 platoon, is set for another assault against National League pitchers.

Mota, who hit .332 for Pittsburgh last season while sharing center field with NL batting king Matty Alou, returned his signed 1067 contract to the Pirates Thursday.

The 28-year-old Dominican appeared in 116 games, rapped five homers and drove in 46 runs for the Pirates. He led the league in batting for most of the season but did not complete enough at-bats to qualify for the title, won by Alou with a .342 mark.

Then, playing in the Dominican Winter League, Mota hit .360 but finished three points behind Alou in the batting race after leading the pack until the next-to-last week.

Illinois Given Chance Over UCLA

BY TEE MEIER

Low Alcindor isn't perfect so maybe underdog Illinois will spring college basketball's upset of the season tonight by defeating the unbeaten and top-ranked UCLA Bruins.

A sellout crowd of 18,000 at Chicago Stadium is expected to watch the fighting Illini try to stop Alcindor, UCLA's agile 7-foot-1 super-sophomore, and snap the Bruins' 14-game winning streak.

Scholtz, a 6-7 sophomore, has been assigned to guard Alcindor. "He's not perfect," Scholtz said. "I watched him play during the Los Angeles Classic at Christmas time and I have a definite plan on what to do against him."

Scholtz didn't give any details about his plan, but he isn't awed by Alcindor's reputation. As for Alcindor, "I don't know what to expect, but as long as they're not hanging on me all the time we can play my game."

UCLA's invasion of the midwest to play Illinois tonight and Chicago Loyola Saturday night highlights increased activity in the college dribble sport after a lull for mid-year exams.

Clay Says He Would Fight Folley

HOUSTON, Tex. AP — Cassius Clay says he would like to fight Zora Folley if he gets by Ernie Terrell next month.

Clay and Terrell settle the disputed heavyweight championship Feb. 6 in the Astrodome. Clay is the consensus champion and Terrell is recognized as champion by the World Boxing Association.

Since Clay began training here two weeks ago he has mentioned other possible future opponents such as George Chuvalo, Floyd Patterson, Sonny Liston and Thad Spencer but now he has narrowed the list to Folley.

"He's been around a long time," Clay said of Folley, the Chandler, Ariz., ring veteran. "He hits hard and he's tricky but he's slow. Floyd Patterson ducked him. When I retire, I want it said that I fought everybody."

Occasionally Clay even talks about fighting three men on the same night — with his title at stake each time.

However, Clay apparently is not looking beyond Terrell. He put in his hardest workout Thursday by boxing nine rounds.

Gordie Howe Gets Trophy for Scoring

NEW YORK AP — Gordie Howe, the National Hockey League, all-time scoring king, today was named the second winner of the Lester Patrick Trophy for outstanding contribution to hockey in the United States.

Howe, who has scored 703 goals in 21 seasons with the Detroit Red Wings, was the unanimous choice of a six-man selection committee headed by NHL President Clarence Campbell. The 39-year-old right wing will receive the trophy at the second annual Lester Patrick award dinner in New York Feb. 20.

Howe, a 6-foot, 20-pound native of Hallowell, Sask., has played more games than anyone in NHL history, has registered 946 points and has won the League's Most Valuable Player trophy six times.

Interleague Play to Be Studied

BOSTON AP — Baseball Commissioner William Weicker says he is studying the possibility of interleague play and has appointed a committee of major league club owners to make a study of the idea.

"The Committee of owners is looking into matters concerning the possibility of interleague play, the All-Star Game schedule, the World Series and regular season scheduling," he said.

"We are studying the possibility of starting the World Series on a weekend and possibly playing night games during the week," the former Air Force General told the 28th annual Boston Thursday night.

"The committee is also looking into the scheduling of games during the regular season as well as that of the All-Star Game to provide more traveling time," he said.

Houk Declares Yanks Still Have Pride

BOSTON AP— Manager Ralph Houk says his New York Yankees still have a lot of pride and we are going to surprise a lot of critics this season.

Houk told the Boston base ball writers at their dinner Thursday night that "if you invite me to your dinner next year we'll not show up as a 10th place manager."

The only - mighty yankees finished in the cellar of the American League last season, but Houk pointed out that 38 games were lost by one run.

"When you lose that many games by that margin, he said "there is not much to rectify to win at least half of such games."

He said the Yankees will switch Mickey Mantle from the outfield to first base in hopes that he will be able to play more often and provide us a bigger advantage in those one-run games."

Davis averaged 236 as he totaled 5,668 for the first 24 games. His final six-game block of 1,528 was the high for the tournament and his total gave 3 17-pin, over Bobby Cooper of Fort Worth, Tex.

A Candid Jerry Mays Reflects on the Super Bowl

OAKLAND, Calif.—(NEA)—Jerry Mays dreaded staying the extra week in California after the Super Bowl. It meant another week of football, for the American Football League All-Star game, a nothing thing played in a quagmire bowl. What bothered Jerry more than that, though, was the idea of facing the other players in the AFL.

"I dreaded it," said Jerry. "The night before we played Green Bay I stayed awake—and all I could think of was guys like Jack Kemp, Billy Shaw, Lance Alworth and Ron Mix, who had been in the league six or seven years like myself. And how we (the Kansas City Chiefs) were playing for their reputations, too."

"Maybe my feelings will change later, but I'm terribly let down. We had a really good season, the best since '62, but the last game took all the luster off. You remember the last game all year long."

What happened then to Kansas City in the 35-10 collapse to Green Bay?

"I believe we lost our poise completely after the interception."

Willie Wood's 50-yard runback of a Lenny Dawson pass early in the third quarter put the Packers on the Kansas City 5-yard line. They scored to make it, 21-10.

"I remember what I said after I ran out on the field," continued Jerry. "This is probably the ball game right here. I thought we could hold them. Before the game, I thought we couldn't get beat by 20 or 35 points, and that's exactly what happened. I just never will be able to accept a loss like that."

The all-league defensive end and captain of the Chiefs didn't consider himself individually blameless, either.

"I was personally too tight the entire ball game," admitted Jerry. "I couldn't seem to settle down."

Only late in the game was he able to relax. The Packers, driving for their final touchdown, were virtually on the Kansas City goal line. The Chiefs lined up in a gap defense (an eight-man front filling all the holes).

Jerry Kramer, the right guard of the Packers, turned to Forrest Gregg, the tackle, as they lined up with the ball. "Who you got, Forrest?" asked Kramer.

Gregg shrugged.

"I'll block down on (Andy) Rice," said Kramer. "You get your idol (Mays)."

Mays grimaced across the line of scrimmage at Kramer.

"You really know how to hurt a guy."

Before the Super Bowl meeting, a lot of publicity had been centered on the fact that Mays, a star tackle at Southern Methodist, singled out Gregg, who preceded him at SMU, as his idol.

One football game isn't the end of the world for Jerry, a poised young man of 27 with a degree in structural engineering, which will be his life's work. He had threatened to quit football after 1963, partly because the Chiefs had moved from their original site, Dallas, his home town. Now he has bought a home in Kansas City, has developed civic pride and really hasn't lost faith in his football team.

"I know that Green Bay is a better club than we are," he said candidly. "but not like in the Super Bowl—more in the nature of three to 10 points. They're not 25 points better than Buffalo (the margin of the Chiefs' victory in the AFL title game)."

"I mean, if you judge a club by one game, you have to say that Green Bay and Oakland are equal, because the Raiders beat us just as bad. I am disappointed in Vince Lombardi, whom I consider a great coach, that he would say the things about us he did after the game."

Lombardi, among other things, pegged Kansas City below the top level clubs in the NFL and considered their defensive secondary not up to NFL standards.

"I can't accept the fact their league is better than ours," he mused sadly. "Maybe somebody else should have been there (the Super Bowl) in our place."

He didn't try to argue himself out of that one.

Gary Lewis to Wed Filipino
By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Gary Lewis, oldest son of comedian Jerry Lewis, will be married to a Filipino girl, his mother said Tuesday night.
Gary, 21, was drafted into the Army early this month. He has headed a musical unit called Gary and the Playboys.
Reports from Manila said the wedding will take place March 5 in Los Angeles. The bride-to-be is Sara Jane (Jinky) Suzara, whose father is captain of the port of Manila.

ONLY ONE WAY to water down a tree when it gets too tall. Get above it. So says Ben Pike of Mill Valley, Calif., who waters all his streetside plants and trees from the roof of his downtown store building, mostly because it's a handy place to keep the hose.

Sophia Loren Back at Work
ROME (AP) — Actress Sophia Loren went back to work Tuesday after her miscarriage less than two weeks ago.
Studio spokesmen said Miss Loren, 32, would spend a few days putting finishing touches on her latest film, "Always a Woman," and then go to a Swiss resort for a complete rest.

First daily newspaper in Washington was the Pacific Tribune, founded at Tacoma in 1874.

It's Movies Now For 'Peter Gunn'

By DICK KLEINER
Hollywood Correspondent
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

HOLLYWOOD (NEA) — Elvis Presley is still so big that he is afraid to go on a movie location—the mob scenes of his adoring fans are too trying.

His next film will be "Clambake," with Shelley Fabares, Will Hutchins and Bill Bixby. In it, he'll play a water ski instructor and much of the action takes place in Florida, with motor boat races and such.

Director Arthur Nadel and producer Arnold Laven asked him to do some location filming in Florida. Elvis didn't say no, but he asked for security provisions which would have driven the budget way up. So they used a double and he'll shoot his scenes in the studio here.

Laven says that the boat race scenes, shot from a helicopter, are remarkable.

Craig Stevens is back in Hollywood shooting "Peter Gunn" again—but this time for a movie, not a television series. It's his first time back in Hollywood in several years.

"It's like I'm alive again," Craig says. Since the Peter Gunn series went off, in 1961, he's been working in England and in New York (remember the ill-fated Mr. Broadway series?) and on stages around the country.

"Hollywood is like a small town," he says. "Out of sight, out of mind. Now that I'm back here, they remember me—and I'm getting lots of offers again, for television and movies."

This will be a different Gunn, Stevens says. On a half-hour show, you don't have time to picture a fully rounded man. The movie will give him time to show Gunn as a complete human being.

The hope—shared by both Stevens and Gunn's creator-producer, Blake Edwards—is that the first film will be so successful they can turn out a series of them, possibly one a year.

Things are changing on The Pruitts of Southampton—for one thing, it's now The Phyllis Diller Show. For another, they're going to let Pamela Freeman do her stuff.

Pam is the pretty little blonde who plays Phyllis' daughter, and this is the first acting part she's ever had. She is primarily a dancer, secondarily a singer and only an actress by accident. So the show's producers are going to take advantage of her skill and they've written in singing and dancing scenes for her.

This is all pleasant for her, but not entirely unexpected. She regularly consults a clairvoyant in Malibu who keeps her informed in advance of what's coming.

About a year and a half ago, this psychic told Pam she would turn actress soon. She did. About a year ago, she told Pam that she would be on television by September. She was. A few months ago, the clairvoyant saw her singing and dancing. She will be.

"And just a few weeks ago," Pam says, "she told me she saw me on the New York stage. So don't be surprised if I get a Broadway play."

I won't be surprised—just mildly stunned.

MGM and Marty Ransohoff have big plans for making a movie out of James Clavell's hit novel, "Tal-Pan." They hope to get David Lean to direct it and two stars of the magnitude of Richard Burton and Peter O'Toole to star in it. Most of it will be shot on location in Hong Kong and it will have a whopping budget.

Ransohoff has done well by MGM so far—he's made seven films at a total cost of $19 million and they've grossed almost $45 million.

Barbara Luna had a tough time in "Fire-creek." She was playing a young mother and a small boy was signed to play her child. The youngster was the son of a woman who is a Playboy Club bunny, and so the child's father is with him most of the time. Consequently, he prefers the company of men to women.

Poor Barbara tried to make friends, but the child would squirm out of her lap and head for the nearest male.

The kid shows shocking bad taste.

Eli Wallach produced as well as starred in "The Tiger Makes Out," with his wife, Anne Jackson. He managed to get a lot of actor friends to work inexpensively, since the film's budget was low.

One of these was the delightful comic actor, David Burns. He agreed to do one small but funny scene and all he asked was the union minimum salary (which was required, of course) plus a color television set.

Howie Morris says the upcoming Sid Caesar special, which reunites Sid, Howie and Carl Reiner, is a good one—"We never did anything that good even in the old days," Howie says.

Director Ralph Nelson has a poodle named Sponsor. The dog was acquired when Nelson was a television director—and his only trick is to bark when Ralph says, "And now a word from our sponsor."

Dick Shawn and Barbara Harris will be teamed in an ABC Stage '67 production... 20th Century-Fox's Dick Zanuck says that 75 per cent of the movies made today show a loss, and the other 25 per cent have to make up the difference.

Just Possible Those Mistakes Caused by the New Arithmetic

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP) — Things a columnist might never know of he didn't open his mail:

Uncle Sam's eagle-eyed tax inspectors now find a mistake in one out of every five federal income tax returns. Could it be they are using the new arithmetic?

Your brain—yes, Matilda, even yours—is far more complex than any computer so far built by man. It has several billion circuits, and is so efficient it can operate for four hours on the energy from a single peanut. Take two peanuts, kid, and think real big.

How much do you spend on clothing? In the average family one out of every $10 goes for this purpose.

Prosperity note: The U.S. Census Bureau estimates that by the age of 64, the average doctor has earned $717,000, the average lawyer $621,000.

Quotable notables: "A man is not old until regrets take the place of dreams"—John Barrymore.

Under the gun: Science is finding out that undue tension can be killing. A study of 133 persons who had suffered heart attacks found that 94 could be classified as excessively competitive and aggressive and involved with work requiring the meeting of deadlines. So relax, and live longer.

Superstitions in stones: Gems have long been thought to hold curative properties. As late as the 18th century, it was thought sapphires would relieve insanity, jet would still the pangs of an aching tooth, and topaz would ease asthma. It is even rumored in some circles today that the gift of a fair-sized diamond will reduce melancholy in wives.

Speaking of wives, the Book of Proverbs says, "Whoso findeth a wife findeth a good thing." This was a favorite saying of King Solomon, who reputedly managed to find a thousand of those "good things" for himself. Worth remembering: "The trouble with being a bachelor is that a guy has to get up so early to make the money to stay out so late."

Final bugle: Time makes a dusk of all banners and all armies. Only four veterans are alive today of the 106,000-man U.S. army force that fought the Indian wars in the Far West between 1860 and 1898.

This may surprise you: The glass industry turns out only three billion bottles and food jars a year for babies—but five billion bottles to pacify America's grownup beer drinkers.

Hoover's Words Distorted by Politicians

WASHINGTON (AP) — In the field of spying, J. Edgar Hoover is the American version of the Delphic Oracle. Politicians make a pilgrimage to the 73-year-old director of the FBI, seeking his words by phone or mail.

Hoover sticks in the public mind while staying pretty much out of the public picture except for an occasional statement on crime or communism or, more rarely, an argument.

No one knows better than Hoover he would not have been boss of the FBI 42 years if he had played politics. But this doesn't discourage politicians, or others, from sometimes interpreting what he says to suit their own purposes.

There's a recent example of it.

Almost three years ago the United States and the Soviet Union agreed on a treaty letting them open consulates in each other's country instead of being limited to an embassy, as they are now.

Because the treaty couldn't go into effect until the Senate approved, in 1965 Hoover was called before Congress to say what he thought of it.

He said Soviet consulates in the United States, staffed by Russians, would mean just that much more opportunity for Soviet spying and more work for the FBI.

This was interpreted by senators who opposed the treaty as meaning Hoover was against it, too. Right-wing outfits, seizing upon Hoover's words, rained letters on senators, protesting the treaty.

That same year the Senate's Foreign Relations Committee, after considering the whole problem, put its blessing on the treaty. But it still needed approval by the full Senate and it never got there.

The Democratic leadership held the treaty back, believing the opposition was too strong. Now once again the committee is holding hearings and this year the full Senate is expected to act, one way or the other.

But Hoover had never said he was against the treaty. He never said he favored it, either. What he did say was that once the Soviets opened consulates in this country life would be tougher for the FBI.

This week Secretary of State Dean Rusk, speaking for the Johnson administration on behalf of the treaty, went before the committee and made this main point:

Having American consulates in the Soviet Union would better protect American tourists there while the treaty itself would remove some of the difficulties in American-Soviet relations.

He acknowledged that permitting Soviet consulates in this country would increase the chances for Soviet spying. But he insisted the risks were small and could be handled by the FBI.

Rusk had a letter from Hoover explaining that his 1965 testimony about the increased danger of Soviet spying if consulates were opened did not mean he was opposing the treaty.

Then Sen. J. W. Fulbright, committee chairman, produced his own letter from Hoover, saying about the same thing. Fulbright favors the treaty. But another committee member, Sen. Karl E. Mundt, South Dakota, Republican, is against it.

Mundt had a third letter from the FBI boss in which Hoover spoke of extra work the consulates would mean for the FBI. But this time the Democratic leadership seems to think the full Senate will approve.

The irony in all this is that, while Hoover was talking about the increased danger of Soviet spying in this country if Soviet consulates were opened, little was said about American spying in the Soviet Union if American consulates were opened there.

Baerg, left, a Caltech-Jet Propulsion laboratory specialist, transferred an enormous amount of information about each planet onto two molded plastic panels slightly more than a foot square—information such as orbit speed, rotation rate, axis, size and mass.

THE DOCTOR'S MAILBAG

Antialcohol Pill Works But Reaction Is Severe

By WAYNE G. BRANDSTADT, M.D.
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

Q—Is there a pill that can be given to an adult that would make him sick if he took an alcoholic drink?

A—Yes—disulfiram (Antabuse)—but it is obtainable only on a doctor's prescription. It should never be given to anyone without his knowledge because of the severity of the reaction to an alcoholic drink in anyone who is taking the drug.

Q—Much is written about the harmful effects of hard liquor but never anything about beer. Can you become an alcoholic on beer and what would be the effect of drinking 15 or 16 bottles a day?

A—Alcohol is alcohol. If the amount in beer is about 6 per cent a 12-ounce bottle would contain about 0.7 of an ounce whereas a 2-ounce drink of 90-proof whiskey would contain 0.9 of an ounce. If a person drank 15 bottles of beer a day he would be getting over 10 ounces of alcohol a day. If continued persistently this would inevitably lead to alcoholism.

Q—Will drinking alcohol in any form be harmful to persons with kidney, heart or liver disease?

A—Although alcohol has no direct effect on the kidneys it is definitely harmful not only to the heart and liver but also to the pancreas and brain. These harmful effects occur only when excessive amounts are taken regularly for many years.

Q—Would two full quarts of whiskey a week be enough to damage the liver?

A—Half this amount would damage the liver in time but it would take about twice as long. The time required to produce cirrhosis of the liver would depend on the body weight of the drinker and other sources of liver damage to which he might be exposed as well as to the amount of alcohol consumed.

Q—How does damage to the liver from alcohol manifest itself? Once damaged in this manner is it possible for the liver to recuperate?

A—Various liver function tests known to your doctor would give the earliest signs of impairment. The end result would be cirrhosis. The liver has remarkable regenerative powers and when impaired function is discovered early complete recuperation is possible if the use of alcohol is discontinued.

Q—I have to take mineral oil almost every night because of hemorrhoids. Is there any danger in taking it over a prolonged period?

A—Because mineral oil is indigestible it coats the food particles in your digestive tract and interferes with their digestion. If your piles are chronic and painful, they should be removed.

Chamber of Commerce Banquet Set

Plans are becoming finalized for the Annual Chamber of Commerce Meeting and Banquet scheduled for Friday evening February 3rd, at 7 o'clock, according to W. L. Tate, general chairman for the event.

George Frazier will serve as master of ceremonies with Charles W. White, Division Vice-President of the Kroger Company as the principle speaker.

Ticket sales are under the direction of co-chairman Cecil O'Steen and Ray Lawrence and assisting them will be Dr. Don Freil, Johnny Turner, Hulan White, Crit Stuart, Jr., T. C. Cranford, Bill Watson, Hubert Thrash, E. J. Whitman, Raymond Byers, Velora Bright, Will Rutherford, Harry Cagle, Kinard Young, Vic Massanelli, Forest Singleton, Corbin Foster, Dorsey Stringfellow, Bud Collier, Steve Marlar, Don Barranco, Jimmy Griffin, Alvin Willis, The First National Bank, The Citizens National Bank, The Hope Federal Savings & Loan Association and the Roy Anderson Insurance Agency.

Catering the food service will be the Town & Country Restaurant and table decorations will be under the direction of the Hope Council of Carden Clubs. Judge Finis Odom heads a committee to set up the tables and clean up after the event, and Guy Grigg heads a committee on the platform and table arrangements and arranging for the public address system.

"We are planning for this to be one of the best banquets that we have ever held," said Mr. Tate, "and we hope that the people will make their plans and get their tickets early."

Prisoners Having Day in Court

LITTLE ROCK (AP)—U. S. District Court will continue its hearing today on complaints by three Tucker Prison Farm inmates who are seeking to have whippings with a strap banished for being cruel and unusual punishment.

The inmates, Lyle E. Ernst Jr., Grady W. Mask and William K. Jackson, contend the whippings are in violation of the 8th and 14th Amendments, and that prison rules governing use of the strap have been violated.

In November 1965, U. S. District Judge J. Smith Henley ruled that whippings with a strap at Tucker constituted cruel and unusual punishment unless they were carried out under appropriate safeguards.

All three inmates testified Thursday they had been whipped with a strap.

Three witnesses testified Thursday in the opening day they had been whipped.

The hearing is before Judges Oren Harris and Gordon E. Young. Representing the plaintiffs are Edward L. Wright Sr. and William S. Arnold, who were appointed by the court.

O. E. Bishop, prison superintendent, is represented by two assistant attorneys general, Robert D. Smith III and Don Langston.

Bomb Blasts Greet Russian

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

MILAN, Italy (AP) — Two more bomb blasts said goodbye to Soviet President Nikolai Podgorny shortly before he left Rome for northern Italy early today, and a third one preceded his arrival in Milan.

Communist party offices were the targets of all three explosions, but none was as powerful as the blast which wrecked a wing of the party's national headquarters in Rome 14 hours before Podgorny arrived Tuesday for a week's state visit.

No one was hurt in any of the explosions, which were blamed on extreme rightists.

Measures in Legislature Thursday

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Measures introduced in the legislature Thursday included:

HOUSE

— A bill establishing an Arkansas Waterways Commission to study and promote the development of the state's rivers.

— An act providing for five-year motor vehicle license plates renewed annually with tabs.

— A bill vowing any uncounted ballots that have not been delivered to the council election commission or county committee of a political party within 24 hours after the polls close.

— An act creating a state park on Willow Creek in Cross and St. Francis counties.

— A bill setting the punishment for annoying or molesting a child at a fine of not more than $1,000 and not less than three years in prison nor more than five or both a fine and sentence.

— A bill requiring independent candidates to file nomination petitions no later than the date for qualifying as a candidate in a party primary.

— An act regulating outdoor advertising signs and junkyards on interstate and primary highways and authorizing improvement of landscapes in scenic areas.

— A bill regulating the reclamation of land in surface mining areas.

— An act requiring compulsory school attendance for children from 7 to 15 years old.

— A bill making obscene or abusive telephone calls a felony.

Outer Space Pact Signed by 3 Nations

MOSCOW AP - The United States, Britain and the Soviet Union signed the U. N. treaty on the peaceful uses of outer space here today in ceremonies attended by Soviet Alexei N. Kosygin.

The ceremony was held in Spiridonov palace, site of the signing of the 1963 nuclear test ban treaty.

Similar signing ceremonies are scheduled later in the day in London and Washington. Smaller powers are expected to sign in late ceremonies.

The signing ceremonies are largely formalities. The treaty was unanimously approved at the United Assembly Dec. 19 although some nations abstained on the vote.

Rusk Unable to Assess China Fight

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — The United States is not able to assess the situation in strife-torn Red China, Secretary of State Dean Rusk says, but he adds, neither is Mao Tse-tung.

Rusk arrived in Texas Thursday for a two day visit. Speaking to a planeside news conference, he said the events in Red China "are obviously of greatest importance."

"We ourselves," he said, "don't know what they mean, but that doesn't embarrass us because Mao Tse-tung obviously doesn't know that they mean either."

The topic of Asia dominated his address to the Texas Legislature Thursday.

He said the United States is trying to "prevent another great war," and the supreme goal of our foreign policy is a durable peace.

Rusk ignored a demonstration against the Vietnam war. A band of 200 students marched in protest past his hotel late Thursday night while the secretary was being honored at a dinner by University of Texas regents.

He told the legislators Thursday the United States is "fighting in Vietnam because we have not forgotten the lesson of the tragic 1930s. The lesson that was foremost in the minds of the authors of the U. N. Charter. The lesson that one aggression leads to another."

"The United States cannot run away from its commitments," he added, "if either our adversaries or our friends should begin to doubt that the United States will honor its alliances, the result could be catastrophic."

$18 Million Suit Against AT&T, Bell

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Telfast, Inc., of Little Rock filed an $18.8 million damage suit in federal district court here Thursday against American Telephone & Telegraph Co., Southwestern Bell Telephone Co., and Western Electric Co.

The suit charges that the defendants violated provisions of the Sherman Act, causing some $6.2 million damage to Telfast, a manufacturer of an automatic telephone switching and ticketing device.

The defendants were charged in the suit of having agreed "to acquire control of the market for substantially all telephones, telephone apparatus and equipment manufactured, sold and used in the United States."

The suit further asks that the defendants be enjoined from interfering with long distance telephone calls placed on Allied Telephone Co. equipment, which includes Telfast.

MOSCOW (AP) — President Josip Broz Tito of Yugoslavia and his wife arrived today in Chop, a small city on the Soviet border with Hungary and Czechoslovakia, it was reported from Moscow.

House Goes Against Tax Relief Bill

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The Arkansas House ground slowly toward the end of the third week of the session Thursday by defeating after lengthy debate a bill allowing a deduction for federal income taxes in computing state income taxes.

The Senate passed a "freedom of information" bill 33-0 between executive sessions in which it confirmed 14 appointments by Gov. Winthrop Rockefeller, rejected one and deferred action on another.

Both houses adjourned until this morning.

The tax bill, the second of the week to be defeated in the House, was authored by Rep. Bill Wells of Hermitage, who said the present law constituted "double taxation" and that he didn't think his measure would cause a revenue loss that would impair state services significantly.

His colleagues' disagreement on this subject apparently led to its defeat with 37 favoring the proposal and 50 opposing it.

Rep. Joel Ledbetter of Little Rock noted that budget requests for the next biennium exceeded anticipated revenues by $45 million. Several other legislators said voting for Wells' measure might make them popular with the voters, but they didn't believe the state could afford the reduction in revenues, which Wells said the state Revenue Department estimated at about $4 million.

"If we pass your bill, we're going to have to reduce budgets in other areas by $4 million or increase taxes," said Rep. Jack S. Oakes of Augusta.

The bill would allow individual taxpayers to deduct up to $1,285 of their federal income taxes. Wells said 19 of the 33 states that have withholding systems allowed a deduction.

"For six years now Arkansas taxpayers have been promised this relief," he said. "It is time we did something about it."

The Senate "freedom of information" measure would require open meetings and records for all governmental bodies except grand juries.

Executive sessions would be allowed only to discuss personnel matters and action on those would have to be taken during an open meeting. The penalty for violations would be a fine of up to $200, 30 days in jail or both the fine and jail sentence.

The House passed a bill designating archaeological research being conducted under the supervision of the University of Arkansas as the Arkansas Archaeological Survey. It is hoped this would broaden the program and encourage all institutions of higher learning in the state to participate.

The representatives also approved a measure outlawing debt adjustment companies. They deferred action, however, on a bill by Rep. Gladys Martin Oglesby of Stamps requiring compulsory immunization against smallpox, polio, diphtheria, tetanus, pertussis (whooping cough) and measles. The bill has been amended to grant exemptions on religious grounds.

Sen. J. Lee Bearden of Leachville introduced a bill permitting Oaklawn Park to extend the racing season from 43 to 50 days, but the measure would not affect the upcoming season.

Rep. B. G. Hendrix of Fort Smith introduced a bill under which the action of a majority of the six adjoining states would determine whether Arkansas goes on Daylight Savings Time this year or remains on standard time. The governor would proclaim the state on standard time if four of the states stayed on standard time. If the majority went to DST, Arkansas would follow suit.

A similar bill has been introduced in the Senate.

Rep. Leon Holstad of North Little Rock said he planned to introduce a bill to merge the state's two tuberculosis sanatoriums at Booneville.

GOP Cries Politics as Senate Rejects WR Appointment

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The Arkansas Senate confirmed 14 of Gov. Winthrop Rockefeller's appointments to state boards and commissions Thursday, but rejected one, arousing the indignation of the Republican state chairman.

Odell Pollard of Searcy said the Senate's refusal to confirm the appointment of Miss Ann Payton of West Memphis to the state Training School for Girls at Alexander way a "partisan power play" and a slap at the GOP and Rockefeller.

"Miss Payton's qualifications for this appointment are well established, and we can only ask the senators if they refused her appointment simply because she is a Republican," Pollard said.

He was critical of Sen. W. K. Ingram of West Memphis, who opposed Miss Payton's appointment. Ingram issued a statement saying he had tried to co-operate with the governor but that co-operation was "a give and take proposition, not a one-way street."

The Senate acted in two executive sessions, one of which lasted 1½ hours.

It delayed confirming the appointment of Joe Brooks of Jonesboro to the board of Arkansas State University at Jonesboro. The Senate had sent the appointment back to Rockefeller earlier in the day, saying there was no vacancy on the board because the board didn't exist. Arkansas State doesn't become a university until July 1.

Rockefeller corrected the appointment to make it to the Arkansas State College board and sent it back to the Senate along with the appointment of Edward H. Boyett of Clarksville to the Commerce Commission.

Boyett's appointment was confirmed but action was deferred on Brooks.

Included among the confirmations was the appointment of John H. Haley of Little Rock to the state Penitentiary Board. Haley was approved although some dispute arose as to whether confirmation required a majority vote of the Senate membership, which would have been 18 votes, or a majority of those present.

It was learned afterward that

720 Enemy Dead in Big Operation

By ROBERT TUCKMAN

SAIGON, South Vietnam (AP) — U. S. infantrymen today wound up the biggest operation so far in the Vietnam war, claiming 720 enemy dead. Meanwhile U. S. Marines pressed ahead with a new drive in the northern part of South Vietnam.

Backed by tanks, artillery and planes, the Leathernecks in the new Operation Tuscaloosa reported killing 74 Red soldiers in day-long fighting 15 miles southeast of Da Nang, the big Marine base on the northern coast.

The U. S. command announced the end of Operation Cedar Falls, which sent an estimated 30,000 Americans to the jungled "iron triangle" 20 to 30 miles northwest of Saigon for a 19-day scorched earth campaign.

In addition to the 720 Communist dead reported, the Americans captured a record 3,709 tons of rice, enough to feed 10,000 troops for a year. The purpose of the operation was to make the triangle useless as a base from which to menace Saigon and the area around the capital.

In the northern end of the country, 6 miles south of the demilitarized zone, U. S. helicopters lifted out a surrounded Marine reconnaissance patrol and a relief force that had been sent in to help and was also surrounded. Marine spokesmen said Leatherneck casualties were light but one helicopter crashed and burned and two others were forced down by enemy fire.

On the political scene, South Vietnam's ruling military junta headed by Premier Nguyen Cao Ky met behind closed doors to discuss a shakeup in the government set in motion by the ouster of the deputy premier and defense secretary, Lt. Gen. Nguyen Huu Co. Co is in Hong Kong, and late Friday the outcome of the junta meeting was not known.

Bombing Curb Brings Sharp Protests

BY WALTER P. MEARS

WASHINGTON AP - Republican Sen. Peter H. Dominick said today critical senators "abnormal and unprecedented" may go directly to President Johnson on U. S. pilots operating over North Vietnam.

And Sen. John G. Turner, R-Tex., forecast a campaign to mobilize public opinion and seek relaxation of the rules.

Dominick said senators who contend that target restrictions are preventing aerial success in the war will press their case with the administration, and may seek to do so at the White House.

"I see that as a possibility," the Colorado senator said. He said Johnson is keeping close rein on the war "on the grounds that this is a political war."

Tower and Dominick, both members of the Senate Armed Services Committee, made their comments in interviews after an angry round of Senate debate over Sen. Stuart Symington, D-Mo., told the Senate Thursday "it would be better to terminate hostilities" than to continue the air war under restrictions he called "abnormal and unprecedented."

Arguments in B. Baker Case

WASHINGTON (AP) — Prosecution and defense attorneys present final arguments today in the U. S. District Court trial of Bobby Baker, former Senate aide charged with larceny, conspiracy and income tax evasion.

The trial, now in its third week, will go to the jury Saturday after Judge Oliver Casch instructs the panel.

103-Year-Old Congratulated

GALATIA, Ill. (AP) — Charles LeTempt, 103 years old Thursday, received greetings at his Galatia, Ill., home from Robert M. Ball, Social Security commissioner.

LeTempt, a retired self-employed businessman, has received Social Security benefits since July 1952.
